Re: Robert G. Nelsen

I write to say that I have known Robert Nelsen since he first began participating in the life of our church in 1968 - that's 13 years.

He is a man of great personal integrity, and has the qualities of intelligence, leadership, courage, and skill required for success as the captain of a large ocean-going commercial fishing vessel working in the waters of the Bering Sea.

He has the special spiritual qualities of a man who has spent his life at sea, testing his life and values against the larger forces and mysteries of existence.

Mr. Nelsen has strong family ties and commitments, with close relationships to his children.

In sum, I commend him to you as a man of high character, and worthy of whatever courtesies you may extend to him.

respectfully,

Robert L. Fulghum,
Minister

Please consider this a letter of recommendation and of vouching for Robert Nelson.

I am the Pastor of the Church where he attends and is a member. I have been in that position for 27 years.

For many years, now, I have known Mr. Nelson and he has attended my classes that I teach, therefore, I know him on a personal level. He flew me to Edmonds, Washington a few years ago to officiate at his wives' funeral. So we have a bond established as I have watched him pick up the pieces of his life and we have talked many times about the future, life, God and all that there is. Whatever he does, he does it in a serving manner and it is a joy to behold that in action wherever he goes. He is a family man, a spiritual man, a good human being.

So personally, I vouch for his integrity, his sincerity, his very being.

If there are any questions, please do not hesitate to call.

Sincerely,

Dr. Tom Costa

Pastor

Merry Christmas Aly:

Christmas has always been a special time for me. It's a time when I reflect on both my physical and spiritual self. It's time when I ask myself who am I, where have I been, and where is my journey taking me.

This Christmas is very special for me. When I look back over the past ten years; I realize that our paths did not come together by accident. That there was a divine intervention that brought us together and so much peace and happiness into my life. I realize how blessed I am to share my love with you.

On this Christmas Eve, I feel that I am at peace and have much good will knowing I am sharing my life with a such a beautiful person who has been given the spiritual presence to bring so much joy to the world around me.

Thank you for all that you are and the love that we share.

Merry Christmas,

Bobby
